

Acuma are proud to announce that we have been accepted onto the Government Procurement Service.

The Government Procurement Service is an executive agency of the Cabinet Office. Their overall priority is to provide procurement savings for the UK Public Sector as a whole including Health, Local Government, Devolved Administrations, Education and Not for Profit organisations and specifically to deliver centralised procurement for Central Government Departments.

What does this mean?

Acuma have been awarded a framework agreement making it easier for Government agencies to come direct to Acuma for their Information Management requirements. We have completed a thorough application process, proving we can deliver quality services that add value, in order to be on the G Cloud Framework. The 'G Cloud' framework allows public organisations to deal with Acuma directly, assured that we are approved by the Government Procurement Service.

What's changed?

The Framework, initiated in February 2012 has always had the focus of providing Public Sector organisations a choice of valued suppliers which can be selected quicker and easier. In October 2012, hundreds of IT organisations have been added meaning the framework is more flexible and more competitive.

Why Acuma?

Acuma are proud to be included in the October 2012 additions meaning Public Sector organisations can now approach us quicker and easier. We have worked with a number of Public Sector organisations from Local Councils, NHS organisations, Educational Institutions right through to Central Government agencies.

We are already tried, tested and trusted within the public sector.
